

THE GIFT OF THE MAGI

from The Four Million
by O. Henry (in 22-point type)

ONE dollar and eighty-seven cents. That was all.

And sixty cents of it was in pennies. Pennies saved one and two at a time by bulldozing the grocer and the vegetable man and the butcher until one's cheeks burned with the silent imputation of parsimony that such close dealing implied. Three times Della counted it. One dollar and eighty-seven cents. And the next day would be Christmas.

There was clearly nothing to do but flop down on the shabby little couch and howl. So Della did it. Which instigates the moral reflection that life is made up of sobs, sniffles, and smiles, with sniffles predominating.

While the mistress of the home is gradually subsiding from the first stage to the second, take a look at the home. A furnished flat at $8 per week. It did not exactly beggar description, but it certainly had that word on the lookout for the mendicancy squad.

In the vestibule below was a letter-box into which no letter would go, and an electric button from which no mortal finger could coax a ring. Also appertaining thereunto was a card bearing the name "Mr. James Dillingham Young."

The "Dillingham" had been flung to the breeze during a former period of prosperity when its possessor was being paid $30 per week. Now, when the income was shrunk to $20, the letters of "Dillingham" looked blurred, as though they were thinking seriously of contracting to a modest and unassuming D. But whenever Mr. James Dillingham Young came home and reached his flat above he was called "Jim" and greatly hugged by Mrs. James Dillingham Young, already introduced to you as Della. Which is all very good.

Della finished her cry and attended to her cheeks with the powder rag. She stood by the window and looked out dully at a grey cat walking a grey fence in a grey backyard. Tomorrow would be Christmas Day, and she had only $1.87 with which to buy Jim a present. She had been saving every penny she could for months, with this result. Twenty dollars a week doesn't go far. Expenses had been greater than she had calculated. They always are. Only $1.87 to buy a present for Jim. Her Jim. Many a happy hour she had spent planning for something nice for him. Something fine and rare and sterling — something just a little bit near to being worthy of the honor of being owned by Jim.

There was a pier-glass between the windows of the room. Perhaps you have seen a pier-glass in an $8 flat. A very thin and very agile person may, by observing his reflection in a rapid sequence of longitudinal strips, obtain a fairly accurate conception of his looks. Della, being slender, had mastered the art.

Suddenly she whirled from the window and stood before the glass. Her eyes were shining brilliantly, but her face had lost its colour within twenty seconds. Rapidly she pulled down her hair and let it fall to its full length.

Now, there were two possessions of the James Dillingham Youngs in which they both took a mighty pride. One was Jim's gold watch that had been his father's and his grandfather's. The other was Della's hair. Had the Queen of Sheba lived in the flat across the airshaft, Della would have let her hair hang out the window some day to dry just to depreciate Her Majesty's jewels and gifts. Had King Solomon been the janitor, with all his treasures piled up in the basement, Jim would have pulled out his watch every time he passed, just to see him pluck at his beard from envy.

So now Della's beautiful hair fell about her, rippling and shining like a cascade of brown waters. It reached below her knee and made itself almost a garment for her. And then she did it up again nervously and quickly. Once she faltered for a minute and stood still while a tear or two splashed on the worn red carpet.

On went her old brown jacket; on went her old brown hat. With a whirl of skirts and with the brilliant sparkle still in her eyes, she fluttered out the door and down the stairs to the street.

Where she stopped the sign read: "Mme. Sofronie. Hair Goods of All Kinds." One flight up Della ran, and collected herself, panting. Madame, large, too white, chilly, hardly looked the "Sofronie."

"Will you buy my hair?" asked Della.

"I buy hair," said Madame. "Take yer hat off and let's have a sight at the looks of it."

Down rippled the brown cascade.

"Twenty dollars," said Madame, lifting the mass with a practiced hand.

"Give it to me quick," said Della.

Oh, and the next two hours tripped by on rosy wings. Forget the bashed metaphor. She was ransacking the stores for Jim's present.

She found it at last. It surely had been made for Jim and no one else. There was no other like it in any of the stores, and she had turned all of them inside out. It was a platinum fob chain simple and chaste in design, properly proclaiming its value by substance alone and not by meretricious ornamentation – as all good things should do. It was even worthy of The Watch. As soon as she saw it she knew that it must be Jim's. It was like him.

Quietness and value – the description applied to both. Twenty-one dollars they took from her for it, and she hurried home with the 87 cents. With that chain on his watch Jim might be properly anxious about the time in any company. Grand as the watch was, he sometimes looked at it on the sly on account of the old leather strap that he used in place of a chain.

When Della reached home her intoxication gave way a little to prudence and reason. She got out her curling irons and lighted the gas and went to work repairing the ravages made by generosity added to love. Which is always a tremendous task, dear friends – a mammoth task.

Within forty minutes her head was covered with tiny, close-lying curls that made her look wonderfully like a truant schoolboy. She looked at her reflection in the mirror long, carefully, and critically.

"If Jim doesn't kill me," she said to herself, "before he takes a second look at me, he'll say I look like a Coney Island chorus girl. But what could I do – oh! what could I do with a dollar and eighty seven cents?"

At 7 o'clock the coffee was made and the frying pan was on the back of the stove hot and ready to cook the chops.

Jim was never late. Della doubled the fob chain in her hand and sat on the corner of the table near the door that he always entered. Then she heard his step on the stair away down on the first flight, and she turned white for just a moment. She had a habit of saying little silent prayers about the simplest everyday things, and now she whispered: "Please God, make him think I am still pretty."

The door opened and Jim stepped in and closed it. He looked thin and very serious. Poor fellow, he was only twenty-two – and to be burdened with a family! He needed a new overcoat and he was without gloves.

Jim stopped inside the door, as immovable as a setter at the scent of quail. His eyes were fixed upon Della, and there was an expression in them that she could not read, and it terrified her. It was not anger, nor surprise, nor disapproval, nor horror, nor any of the sentiments that she had been prepared for. He simply stared at her fixedly with that peculiar expression on his face.

Della wriggled off the table and went for him.

"Jim, darling," she cried, "don't look at me that way. I had my hair cut off and sold it because I couldn't have lived through Christmas without giving you a present.

It'll grow out again – you won't mind, will you? I just had to do it. My hair grows awfully fast. Say 'Merry Christmas!' Jim, and let's be happy. You don't know what a nice – what a beautiful, nice gift I've got for you."

"You've cut off your hair?" asked Jim, laboriously, as if he had not arrived at that patent fact yet even after the hardest mental labor.

"Cut it off and sold it," said Della. "Don't you like me just as well, anyhow? I'm me without my hair, ain't I?"

Jim looked about the room curiously.

"You say your hair is gone?" he said, with an air almost of idiocy.

"You needn't look for it," said Della. "It's sold, I tell you – sold and gone, too. It's Christmas Eve, boy. Be good to me, for it went for you. Maybe the hairs of my head were numbered," she went on with a sudden serious sweetness, "but nobody could ever count my love for you. Shall I put the chops on, Jim?"

Out of his trance, Jim seemed quickly to wake. He enfolded his Della. For ten seconds let us regard with discreet scrutiny some inconsequential object in the other direction. Eight dollars a week or a million a year – what is the difference? A mathematician or a wit would give you the wrong answer. The magi brought valuable gifts, but that was not among them. This dark assertion will be illuminated later on.

Jim drew a package from his overcoat pocket and threw it upon the table.

"Don't make any mistake, Dell," he said, "about me. I don't think there's anything in the way of a haircut or a shave or a shampoo that could make me like my girl any less. But if you'll unwrap that package you may see why you had me going a while at first."

White fingers and nimble tore at the string and paper. And then an ecstatic scream of joy; and then, alas! a quick feminine change to hysterical tears and wails, necessitating the immediate employment of all the comforting powers of the lord of the flat.

For there lay The Combs – the set of combs, side and back, that Della had worshipped for long in a Broadway window. Beautiful combs, pure tortoise shell, with jeweled rims – just the shade to wear in the beautiful vanished hair. They were expensive combs, she knew, and her heart had simply craved and yearned over them without the least hope of possession. And now, they were hers, but the tresses that should have adorned the coveted adornments were gone.

But she hugged them to her bosom, and at length she was able to look up with dim eyes and a smile and say: "My hair grows so fast, Jim!"

And then Della leaped up like a little singed cat and cried, " Oh, oh!

Jim had not yet seen his beautiful present. She held it out to him eagerly upon her open palm. The dull precious metal seemed to flash with a reflection of her bright and ardent spirit.

"Isn't it a dandy, Jim? I hunted all over town to find it. You'll have to look at the time a hundred times a day now. Give me your watch. I want to see how it looks on it."

Instead of obeying, Jim tumbled down on the couch and put his hands under the back of his head and smiled. "Dell," said he, "let's put our Christmas presents away and keep 'em a while. They're too nice to use just at present. I sold the watch to get the money to buy your combs. And now suppose you put the chops on."

The magi, as you know, were wise men – wonderfully wise men – who brought gifts to the Babe in the manger. They invented the art of giving Christmas presents. Being wise, their gifts were no doubt wise ones, possibly bearing the privilege of exchange in case of duplication. And here I have lamely related to you the uneventful chronicle of two foolish children in a flat who most unwisely sacrificed for each other the greatest treasures of their house. But in a last word to the wise of these days let it be said that of all who give gifts these two were the wisest. Of all who give and receive gifts, such as they are wisest. Everywhere they are wisest. They are the magi.

One of 25 stories in The Four Million, by O. Henry
Available in 16- or 22-pt type

Science & Humanities Press

Publishes fine books under the imprints:

- Science & Humanities Press
- BeachHouse Books
- MacroPrint Books
- Heuristic Books
- Early Editions Books

Classic Titles Available in Paperback as 16-24 pt MacroPrintBooks™ (most are also in regular print)

The Four Million: The Gift of the Magi & other favorite stories.
Life in New York City around 1900 – O. Henry (reprint 2001) ISBN 1-888725-41-9, 8¼X6½, 16pt, 270 pp, $18.95; ISBN 1-888725-03-6, 8¼X10½
22 pt, 300 pp, $22.95

Bar-20: Hopalong Cassidy's Rustler Roundup – Clarence Mulford (reprint 2000). Classical Western Tale. Not the TV version. ISBN 1-888725-42-7, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 385pp, $18.95

Paul the Peddler or The Fortunes of a Young Street Merchant – Horatio Alger, jr. A Classic inspirational story. (reprint 1998) ISBN 1-888725-02-8, 8¼X10½, 24 pt, 276 pp, $18.95

The Wisdom of Father Brown--G.K. Chesterton (reprint 2000)
Classic stories about the priest-detective reprinted in accessible 18-pt. extra-large type ISBN 1-888725-27-3, 8¼ X 11, 22 pt, 250 pp, $18.95

24-point Gospel – The Big News for Today, Gospel according to Matthew, Mark, Luke & John (KJV) ISBN 1-888725-11-7, 8¼ X 11, 24 pt, 512 pp, $24.95

Buttered Side Down – Short Stories by Edna Ferber, the beloved author of Showboat, Giant, and Cimarron. (reprint 2000) ISBN 1-888725-40-0, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 240 pp, 16 pt $18.95

Me and My Shadows – Shadow Puppet Fun for Kids of All Ages - Elizabeth Adams, Revised Edition by Dr. Bud Banis (2002) Illustrated guide to the art of shadow puppetry. A perfect gift for children and adults. ISBN 1-888725-78-8 8½X11 lay-flat spiral, 18 pt, 67 pp, $16.95

Contemporary Titles in MacroPrintBooks™

Nursing Home – Ira Eaton, PhD, (1999) You will be moved and disturbed by this recent novel. ISBN 1-888725-23-0, 8X11, 16 pt, 300pp, $18.95

The Bridge Never Crossed-A Survivor's Search for Meaning, By George Burk (1999) illustrated with photographs. Inspiring story of George Burk, lone survivor of a military plane crash, who overcame extensive burn injuries to earn a presidential award. ISBN 1-888725-28-1, 8¼ X 11, 16 pt, 170 pp, $24.95

Value Centered Leadership – A Survivor's Strategy for Personal and Professional Growth – Captain George A. Burk (2004) Principles of Leadership & Total Quality Management applied to all aspects of living. 16 pt. ISBN 1-888725-54-0, 6½X8¼, 140 pp, $24.95

Spiritual Journeys in Prayer and Song with music CD, Reverend Peter Unger, 2006. Short Christian meditations with accompanying songs on CD ISBN 1-59630-010-8 MacroPrintBooks Large Print edition, 16 point type $29.95

Journey to a Closed City with the International Executive Service Corps – Russell R. Miller. Describes the adventures of a retired executive volunteering with the senior citizens' equivalent of the Peace Corp as he applies his professional skills in a former Iron Curtain city emerging into the dawn of a new economy. This book is essential reading for anyone approaching retirement who is interested in opportunities to exercise skills to "do good" during expense-paid travel to intriguing locations. Journey to A Closed City should also appeal to armchair travelers eager to explore far-off corners of the world in our rapidly-evolving global community. Paperback MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2004) ISBN 1-888725-94-8, 8¼X6½, 18 pt, 150 pp, $24.95

To Norma Jeane With Love, Jimmie – Jim Dougherty as told to LC VanSavage (MacroPrintBooks™ edition 2001) The sensitive touching story of the Jim Dougherty's teenage bride who later became Marilyn Monroe. As seen on TV. Dozens of photographs. ISBN 1-888725-52-4, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 290pp, $24.95

To Norma Jeane With Love, Jimmie – with DVD of the 1964 one-hour feature film, The Marilyn Monroe Story, including interviews with author Jim Dougherty. A nice historical review package ISBN 1-59630-020-5, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 290pp with DVD, $29.95

Tales from the Woods of Wisdom - (book I) – Richard Tichenor. (2001) In a spirit someplace between The Wizard of Oz and The Celestine Prophecy, this is more than a childrens' fable of life in the deep woods. ISBN 1-888725-50-8, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 270 pp $24.95

MamaSquad! (MacroPrintBooks™ edition 2001) Hilarious novel by Clarence Wall about what happens when a group of women from a retirement home get tangled up in Army Special Forces. ISBN 1-888725-14-1, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 300 pp, $24.95

The Job – Eric Whitfield (MacroPrintBooks™ edition 2001) A story of self-discovery in the context of the death of a grandfather. A book to read and share in times of change and Grieving. ISBN 1-888725-69-9, 8¼X6½, 18 pt, 160 pp, $18.95

Perfect Love – Mary Harvatich (2000) Love born at an orphanage endures. ISBN 1-888725-15-X, 8¼X10½, 16pt, 200 pp, $18.95

The Cut--John Evans (2003). Football, Mystery and Mayhem in a highschool setting by John Evans 16 pt. ISBN: 1-888725-83-4 $24.95

How to Travel-A Guidebook for Persons with a Disability – Fred Rosen (1998) ISBN 1-888725-17-6 8¼X10½, 18 pt, 120 pp, $19.95

Reviewed in Library Journal, March 2001

HOW TO TRAVEL in Canada – A Guidebook for A Visitor with a Disability – Fred Rosen MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2001) ISBN 1-888725-30-3 7X8, 16 pt, 200 pp, $19.95

How to travel to and in Britain & Northern Ireland : a guidebook for visitors with a disability – Fred Rosen. ISBN 1-888725-47-8, 5½X8¼, 190 pp, $14.95 MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2006) ISBN 1-888725-48-6, 7X8, 16 pt, 200 pp, $19.95

Sometimes MS is Yucky Kimberly Harrold, Illustrated by Eric Whitfield (2005) Illustrated color booklet for children ages 3-8 who have a parent or loved one with Multiple Sclerosis Includes a "Parent Section" with suggestions on therapeutic activities for providing emotional support to kids dealing with MS in their young lives. 16-18pt booklet. ISBN 1-59630-006-X Thirty two pp $7.95

Ropes and Saddles – Andy Polson (2001) Cowboy (and other) poems by Andy Polson. Reminiscences of the Wyoming poet. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2006) ISBN 1-59630-018-3 8¼ X 11, 16 pt $19.95

Rhythm of the Sea – Shari Cohen (2001) Delightful heartwarming stories of life relationships set in the context of oceans and lakes. Shari Cohen is a popular author of Womens' magazine articles and contributor to the Chicken Soup for the Soul series. ISBN 1-888725-63-X 8¼X6½, 16pt, 250 pp, $24.95

The Gift of the Magic -and other enchanting character-building stories for smart teenage girls who want to grow up to be strong women. Richard Showstack, (2004) MacroPrintBooks™ edition ISBN 1-888725-65-8¼X6½, 16 pt, 280 pp, $24.95

A Horse Named Peggy-and other enchanting character-building stories for smart teenage boys who want to grow up to be good men. Richard Showstack, (2004) MacroPrintBooks™ edition ISBN 1-888725-67, 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 280 pp, $24.95

Science & Humanities Press

PO Box 7151, Chesterfield, MO 63006-7151

www.sciencehumanitiespress.com

Riverdale Chronicles--Charles F. Rechlin (2003). Life, living and character studies in the setting of the Riverdale Golf Club by Charles F. Rechlin 16 pt. 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp ISBN: 1-888725-85-0 $24.95

Winners and Losers--Charles F. Rechlin (2005). a collection of humorous short stories portraying misadventures of attorneys, stock brokers, and others in the Urban workplace. ISBN 1-59630-003-5
MacroPrintBooks Edition (large print) $24.95

Bloodville -- Don Bullis (2002) Fictional adaptation of the Budville, NM murders by New Mexico crime historian, Don Bullis. 16 pt. 8¼X11 460pp ISBN: 1-888725-76-1 $24.95

Ellos Pasaron por Aqui – 99 New Mexicans and a Few Other Folks (2005) compilation of old-time stories illustrates how the Wild West really was during New Mexico's frontier era. MacroPrintBooks™ edition ISBN 1-888725-93-1, 350pp 8¼ X 11, 16 pt, $24.95

The Way It Was-- Nostalgic Tales of Hotrods and Romance Chuck Klein. Series of hotrod stories by author of Circa 1957 in collaboration with noted illustrator Bill Lutz MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2003) 16 pt. 8¼X6½, 350pp ISBN: 1-888725-87-7 $24.95

Route 66 books by Michael Lund

Growing Up on Route 66 – Michael Lund. Novel evoking fond memories of what it was like to grow up alongside “America's Highway” in 20th Century Missouri. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2001) ISBN 1-888725-45-1 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 330 pp, $24.95

Route 66 Kids – Michael Lund. Sequel to Growing Up on Route 66, continuing memories of what it was like to grow up alongside “America's Highway” in 20th Century Missouri. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2002) ISBN 1-888725-71-0 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp, $24.95.

Audiobook on CD – Growing Up on Route 66 ISBN: 1-59630-021-3 by Michael Lund abridged 6 CD's --7 Hours running time. $24.95

Route 66 Spring-- Michael Lund. Lives of 4 young Missourians are changed when a bottle comes to the surface of one of the state's many natural springs. Inside is a letter written by a girl a dozen years after the end of the Civil War. The note contains a sad story of family failure and a powerful plea for help. This message from the last century crystallizes the individual frustrations of Janet Masters, Freddy Sills, Louis Clark, and Roberta Green, another group of Route 66 kids. Their response to the past charts a bold path into the future, a path inspired by the Mother Road itself. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2004) ISBN 1-888725-99-0. 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp, $24.95.

A Left-hander on Route 66--Michael Lund ISBN 1-888725-88-5. Twenty years after the fact, left-hander Hugh Noone appeals a wrongful conviction that detoured him from “America's Main Street” and put him in jail. But revealing the details of the past and effecting a resolution of his case mean a dramatic rearrangement of his world, including troubled relationships with three women: Linda Roy, Patty Simpson, and Karen Murphy. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2003) ISBN 1-888725-89-3 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp, $24.95

Miss Route 66--Michael Lund. In the fourth novel of Michael Lund's Route 66 Novel Series, Susan Bell tells the story of her candidacy in Fairfield, Missouri's annual beauty contest. Now married and with teenage children in St. Louis, she recounts her youthful adventure in this small town along “America's Highway.” At the same time, she plans a return to Fairfield in order to right injustices she feels were done to some young contestants in the Miss Route 66 Pageant.

MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2004) ISBN 1-888725-97-4 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp, $24.95 Audiobook on 5 CD's ISBN 1-888725-12-5 $24.95

Route 66 to Vietnam Michael Lund. This novel takes characters from earlier works in the Route 66 Novel Series farther west than Los Angeles, official destination of the famous highway, Route 66. Mark Landon and Billy Rhodes find the values they grew up on challenged by America's role in Southeast Asia. But elements of their upbringing represented by the Mother Road also sustain them in ways they could never have anticipated. MacroPrintBooks™ edition (2004) ISBN 1-59630-001-9. 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 350 pp, $24.95. AudioBook on 6 CD's ISBN: 1-59630-011-6 Michael Lund's fictional commentary from the viewpoint of a draftee. by Michael Lund unabridged 6 CD's --9 hours running time. $24.95

Route 66 Chapel Michael Lund. When the forces of progress threaten the foundation of smalltown life – a small church – five senior citizens, a mysterious newcomer, and one young couple band together in an unlikely campaign to save it. The embattled meeting point of old and new is Route 66 Chapel, a building curiously linked to America's "Mother Road." (2006) MacroPrintBooks™ edition ISBN 1-59630-013-2,. 8¼X6½, 16 pt, 340 pp, $24.95.

Audiobooks:

Growing Up on Route 66 – Michael Lund. Contemporary coming-of-age novel evoking fond memories of what it was like to grow up alongside "America's Highway" in 20th Century Missouri. Abridged Audiobook (2006) on 6 CDs ISBN 1-59630-021-3 $24.95

Miss Route 66--Michael Lund. In the fourth novel of Michael Lund's Route 66 Novel Series, Susan Bell tells the story of her candidacy in Fairfield, Missouri's annual beauty contest. Now married and with teenage children in St. Louis, she recounts her youthful adventure in this small town along "America's Highway." At the same time, she plans a return to Fairfield in order to right injustices she feels were done to some young contestants in the Miss Route 66 Pageant.

Audiobook on 5 CD's ISBN 1-888725-12-5 $24.95

Route 66 to Vietnam Michael Lund This novel takes characters from earlier works in the Route 66 Novel Series farther west than Los Angeles, official destination of the famous highway, Route 66. Mark Landon and Billy Rhodes find the values they grew up on challenged by America's role in Southeast Asia. But elements of their upbringing represented by the Mother Road also sustain them in ways they could never have anticipated. Michael Lund's fictional commentary from the viewpoint of a draftee AudioBook (2006) ISBN: 1-59630-011-6 unabridged 6 CD's --9 hours running time. $24.95

Educator's Discount Policy

(Seniors 62 or over also qualify for educator's discount)

To encourage use of our books for education, educators can purchase three or more books (mixed titles) on our standard discount schedule for resellers. See sciencehumanitiespress.com/educator/educator.html for more detail or call

Science & Humanities Press,

PO Box 7151, Chesterfield MO 63006-7151

VOICE 636-394-4950 FAX 636-394-1381

Sciencehumanitiespress.com

Our books are guaranteed:

If a book has a defect, or doesn't hold up under normal use, or if you are unhappy in any way with one of our books, we are interested to know about it and will replace it and credit reasonable return shipping costs. Products with publisher defects (i.e., books with missing pages, etc.) may be returned at any time without authorization. However, we request that you describe the problem, to help us to continuously improve.

MacroPrintBooks from Science & Humanities Press

Check current listing of large print books at macroprintbooks.com. Order by credit card online. Most of our books are also available in regular size print. See all Science & Humanities Press Books at sciencehumanitiespress.com

If you Buy 3 or more books (mixed titles) take advantage of our educator and Senior discount policy at sciencehumanitiespress.com

Order Form

Item	Each	Quantity	Amount
Missouri (only) sales tax 6.075%
Priority Shipping			$4.00
	Total

Name
Address

MacroPrintBooks – an Imprint of Science & Humanities Press

PO Box 7151 Chesterfield, MO 63006-7151

(636) 394-4950 FAX 636-394-1381

Sciencehumanitiespress.com

